

DAVID NASH

David Nash is the Founding Dean of the Jefferson School of Population Health on the campus of Thomas Jefferson University in Philadelphia, Pennsylvania; and the Dr. Raymond C. and Doris N. Grandon Professor of Health Policy.

Dr. Nash, a Board Certified Internist, founded the original Office of Health Policy in 1990. Thirteen years later, the Office evolved into one of the first Departments of Health Policy in an American medical college. In 2008, the Board of Jefferson University approved the creation of The Jefferson School of Population Health representing the first time a health-sciences university has placed four Masters Programs under one roof with the goal to produce a new type of healthcare leader.

Dr. Nash is internationally recognized for his work in outcomes management, medical staff development and quality-of-care improvement; his publications have appeared in more than 100 articles in major journals and he has edited nineteen books. He was awarded the Latiolais Prize by the Academy of Managed Care Pharmacy; the Philadelphia Business Journal Healthcare Heroes Award; the Elliot Stone Award; the Wharton Healthcare Alumni Achievement Award and was named an honorary distinguished fellow of the American College of Physician Executives.

Repeatedly named by Modern Healthcare to the top 100 most powerful persons in healthcare list, he is on the board of directors and advisory board of multiple healthcare companies. Dr. Nash is a consultant to organizations in both the public and private sectors. Currently, he is Editor-in-Chief of four major national journals. Through his writings, appearances and digital presence, his message reaches over 100,000 persons every month.

Dr. Nash received his BA in economics (Phi Beta Kappa) from Vassar College; his MD from the University of Rochester School of Medicine and Dentistry; and his MBA in Health Administration (with honors) from the Wharton School at the University of Pennsylvania. While at Penn, he was a former Robert Wood Johnson Foundation Clinical Scholar and Medical Director of a nine physician faculty group practice in general internal medicine.
