Azucena Gonzalez became KHC's Health Care Quality Data Analyst in July 2018. She first joined KHC in March 2018 as Population Health Intern. Gonzalez assists with data collection, management, and analysis for KHC and provides hospitals and clinics with technical assistance for using data to support and drive quality improvement efforts. She also serves as a measurement and data analysis resource for partner organizations and promotes the use of rigorous analytical methods to drive quality improvement.

Before joining KHC, Gonzalez worked in a variety of positions in Newton while completing her degree, including as a Bilingual Adult Advocate at Safehope, as a translator at Full Vision, and as Coalition Assistant at the Harvey County Health Department.

Gonzalez holds a Bachelor of Arts degree in Psychology from Bethel College in North Newton. She also holds certificates in Neuroscience and Interprofessional Health Studies.
